PLENARY TOPICS

DAY 1

Plenary 1.1 Introduction and Welcome

Mark Nordenberg, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Chancellor Emeritus and Chair of the Institute of Politics, University of Pittsburgh

Laura Ellsworth, Co-chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Partner-in-Charge of Global Community Service Initiatives, Jones Day

Members of Leadership Team/Global Advisors

Plenary 1.2 The State of Hate

Hate-fueled violence of all kinds continues to impact communities around the world. This panel will address recent incidents and trends involving hate precipitated by actors motivated by various kinds of hate -- anti-Semitic, anti-Black, anti-Asian, anti-Muslim, anti-LGBTQ+, anti-women, and more.

Moderator: George Selim, Senior Vice President of Programs, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Brett Kubicek, PhD, Manager of Research, Canada Centre for Community Engagement and Prevention of Violence, Public Safety Canada

Catrina Doxsee, Associate Director and Associate Fellow, Transnational Threats Project, Center for Strategic & International Studies (CSIS)

Louisa Klingvall, Team Leader, Directorate-General for Justice and Consumers Unit c.2 Fundamental Rights Policy

Dina Hussein, Counterterrorism & Dangerous Organizations Policy for Europe, Middle East and Asia, Meta

Sasha Havlicek, CEO, Institute for Strategic Dialogue (ISD)

Dr. Liz Yates, Senior Researcher on Antisemitism, Human Rights First

Mary McCord, Visiting Professor of Law and Executive Director of the Institute for Constitutional Advocacy and Protection (ICAP), Georgetown University Law Center

Plenary 1.3 From Pittsburgh to Buffalo: A Throughline of Threat

A new paradigm for hate-fueled mass violence arose in Pittsburgh on 10/27 and has continued up through the recent attacks, including in Buffalo. This panel will trace this new internet-based violence from Pittsburgh to Poway to El Paso to Buffalo and will discuss the new responses that are necessary to address this throughline of threat.

Moderator: Mark Nordenberg, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Chancellor Emeritus and Chair of the Institute of Politics, University of Pittsburgh

Speakers:

Marc-André Argentinio Argentinio, Research Fellow, International Centre for the Study of Radicalisation (ICSR), PhD Candidate, Concordia University

Graham Macklin, Assistant Professor/Postdoctoral Fellow, Center for Research on Extremism (C-Rex), University of Oslo

Blyth Crawford, Research Fellow, King's College

Amarnath Amarasingam, Assistant Professor, Queen's University

Plenary 1.4 The Summit Response: An Overview

The Summit was designed to precipitate solutions to the seemingly intractable problem of hate-fueled violence. This series of speakers will describe the developments since the last Summit, and the Working Groups and Tracks that are driving meaningful change.

Moderator: Laura Ellsworth, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Partner-in-Charge of Global Community Service Initiatives, Jones Day

Speakers:

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

William Braniff, Director, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START), Professor of the Practice, University of Maryland; We the Veteran

Emma Cardeli, Ph.D, Attending Psychologist & Research Associate, Trauma & Community Resilience Center, Boston Children's Hospital, Instructor of Psychology, Harvard Medical School

Colin Clarke, Director of Research, The Soufan Group

John Picarelli, DHS CP3 Office Director

Rasha Shields, Partner, Jones Day

Brette Steele, Director of Prevention and National Security, McCain Institute

Nick Rasmussen, Executive Director, Global Internet Forum to Counter Terrorism (GIFCT)

Arjun Rath, Student and Activist

Michele Rosenthal, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee

George Selim, Senior Vice President of Programs, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Jacob Ware, Research Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations

Plenary 1.5 The World of Sport: Global Communication of an Anti-Hate Message

In 2019, the United Nations Secretary General launched his Action Plan Against Hate Speech and, in 2022, identified international sports as its next focus cohort. The UN and a Summit Working Group have partnered together to spearhead that global effort, and this panel will describe the state of the project and the next steps toward implementation.

Moderator: Michele Rosenthal, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee
Speakers:

Alice Wairimu Nderitu, Special Adviser on the Prevention of Genocide, United Nations

Oren Segal, Vice President, Center on Extremism, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

David Friedman, Senior Counsel, Fenway Sports Group

Anna Isaacson, Senior Vice President, Social Responsibility, National Football League (NFL)

Lauren Culbertson Grieco, Head of U.S. Public Policy, Twitter

Derek Silva, Associate Professor, King's College, London

Plenary 1.6 LUNCH KEYNOTE #1: Alice Wairimu Nderitu, Special Adviser on the Prevention of Genocide, United Nations

Plenary 1.7 LUNCH KEYNOTE #2: John Tien, Deputy Secretary of U.S. Department of Homeland Security

Plenary 1.8 CLOSING KEYNOTE: Ambassador Deborah Lipstadt

DAY 2

Plenary 2.1 KEYNOTE

Plenary 2.2 Buffalo: The Background

The background of the shooter in Buffalo was all too familiar to those in the anti-extremism field. As discussed at the Summit last year, the events at Tree of Life opened a new form of global violence, driven by virulent, manifesto-based hate that is stoked and depicted online. Pittsburgh was its first target and Buffalo was one of its latest incarnations. This panel, the first of two dedicated to Buffalo, will describe what we have learned about that terrible day.

Moderator: Jared Cohon, University Professor, President Emeritus, Carnegie Mellon University

Speakers:

Rita Katz, Executive Director and Founder, SITE Intelligence Group

Emma Jouenne, Director of Programs & Research on Extremism, Parents for Peace

Marc-André Argentino, Research Fellow, International Centre for the Study of Radicalisation (ICSR), PhD Candidate, Concordia University

Oren Segal, Vice President, Center on Extremism, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Plenary 2.3 Buffalo: Lessons Learned and Future Steps

This second panel dedicated to Buffalo will address what we have learned from that tragic event. The livestream of the Buffalo attack was taken down within two minutes, but versions of it continue to circulate throughout the digital world. This panel will discuss what was done right and what can be done better to curtail virtual virulence. In addition, this panel will examine how communities can respond to acts of hate, and how the Buffalo community has come together to focus on preventing hate both at home and around the world.

Moderator: George Selim, Senior Vice President of Programs, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Speakers:

Vidhya Ramalingam, Founder & CEO, Moonshot

Nick Rasmussen, Executive Director, Global Internet Forum to Counter Terrorism (GIFCT)

Joanna Mendelson, Senior Vice President, Community Engagement, Jewish Federation of Greater Los Angeles

Bjørn Ihler, Co-founder and Director, Khalifa Ihler Institute; Co-founder and Co-CEO Glitterpill LLC

Samatha Vinograd, Acting Assistant Secretary for Counterterrorism, Threat Prevention and Law Enforcement Policy, U.S. Department of Homeland Security

Buffalo Community Members

Plenary 2.4 Undercover In The Far Right

For five years, an undercover FBI agent lived and worked among members of one of the most violent white supremacist groups in the United States. The Rolling Stone writer who surfaced the story will interview the agent who lived it.

Speakers:

Paul Solotaroff, Senior Writer, Rolling Stone Magazine
"Scott"

Plenary 2.5 LUNCH KEYNOTE #1: Josh Geltzer, Deputy Assistant to the President, Deputy Homeland Security Advisor

Plenary 2.6 LUNCH KEYNOTE #2: Julie Platt, Chair of the Board, Jewish Federations of North America

Plenary 2.7 CLOSING KEYNOTES: Michael E. Hill, President of Chautauqua Institution and R. Henry Reese, Co-Founder, City of Asylum Pittsburgh

DAY 3

Plenary 3.1 KEYNOTE: Steve Dettelbach, Director of U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF)

Plenary 3.2 LUNCH KEYNOTE #1: PERSONAL REFLECTIONS: Jeff Blattner, Chair of Board, HIAS

Plenary 3.3 LUNCH KEYNOTE #2: Paul Ash, Prime Minister's Special Representative on Cyber and Digital, Cyber Coordinator, Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet, New Zealand

Plenary 3.4 CLOSING KEYNOTE

TRACK 1: VIOLENT EXTREMISM IN THE POLICE AND MILITARY

Panel 1.1 Setting the Scene: Military & Veterans

Key stakeholders will open this event, discuss the importance of the track and how collaboration is integral to reducing violence, and preview the track agenda.

Introduced by: Dawn and Richard Collins, Activists

Moderator: William Braniff, Director, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START), Professor of the Practice, University of Maryland; We the Veteran

Speakers:

George Selim, Senior Vice President of Programs, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Shawn Turner, Professor of National Security Communication, Michigan State, On-Air National Security Analyst, CNN, Former Director of Communication, U.S. National Intelligence; Former Deputy White House Press Secretary for National Security

Panel 1.2 Research on Violent Extremism, the Military, and Veterans

This panel will provide an overview of extremism and the intersection with military and veterans, setting a shared understanding of the issue to be explored over the coming days. The speakers reflect multiple disciplines and will speak to the issue historically as well as contextualizing the key issues.

Moderator: Rajeev Ramshand, RAND

Michael Jensen, Senior Researcher, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START)

Jessica Dawson, The New War Research Consortium

Heather J. Williams, Acting Associate Director, International Security and Defense

Police Center, Senior Policy Researcher, Professor, Pardee RAND Graduate School

Lisa Nelson, University of Pittsburgh; Collaboratory Against Hate

Panel 1.3 Views from Law Enforcement Leaders: What the Law Enforcement Community is Doing to Combat Extremism

Police departments across the country play an integral role in combatting extremism in their communities. This panel of law enforcement leaders will discuss their organizations' efforts in this regard, as well as the challenges they face in preventing and rooting out extremism within the police ranks.

Moderator: Rasha Shields, Jones Day

Speakers:

Ken Scarlette, Chief of Police, Springfield, Illinois Police Department

Scott Schubert, FBI Criminal Justice Information Services & Retired Pittsburgh Police Chief

Chief Robert J. Contee III, Metropolitan Police Department
Sammie Wicks, Center for Targeted Violence Prevention and National Policing Institute

Panel 1.4 The Incidence and Prevalence of Extremism in Law Enforcement

Understanding the scope and nature of the problem is the first step in devising effective prevention and response strategies. These experts will discuss what we know about the incidence and prevalence of violent extremism in the ranks of law enforcement throughout the United States.

Moderator: Katie Reisner, States United Democracy Center

Speakers:

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Alex Friedfeld, Investigative Researcher, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Vida Johnson, Associate Professor, Georgetown Law

Panel 1.5 A Global Perspective of Extremism in Policing

Governments around the world have faced the threat of extremism within their police ranks. These experts from Germany and the United Kingdom will be comparing their unique challenges and approaches to preventing and responding to extremism within the law enforcement community.

Moderator: Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Speakers:

Paul Giannasi, Hate Crime Advisor to the National Police Chiefs' Council in the United Kingdom

Michael Whine, Senior Consultant at the World Jewish Congress and co-founder U.K. Community Security Trust

Thomas Grumke, *Professor at the University of Police and Public Administration
Nordrhein-Westfalen*

Panel 1.6 Learnings From Veteran Service Organizations (VSOs)

This panel will address what prevention practitioners can learn from VSOs and how these existing capabilities (often geared to address other challenges/harms) can be leveraged to support targeted violence and terrorism prevention.

Moderator: Joe Plenzler, We the Veterans

Jeremy Butler, Chief Executive Officer, Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans of America (IAVA)

Joe Chennely, National Executive Director, American Veterans (AMVETS)

Susan Thaxton, Chief Programs Officer, Mission Continues

Panel 1.7 Building Safe Transitions When Leaving the Military

These speakers will discuss how transition presents challenges that some violent extremists groups have sought to exploit. The speakers will identify what existing support is available and how transition can be improved.

Moderator: Ben Keiser, We the Veterans

Tina Atherall, D.S.W., LMSW, Chief Executive Officer, PsychArmor

Eric Eversole, President, Hiring Our Heroes, U.S. Chamber of Commerce Foundation, Vice President, U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Noel Lipana, U.S. Department of Homeland Security

Panel 1.8 Veteran Support Networks

This panel will address how support networks of friends, family, peers, and organizations (e.g., community and career support organizations like Team RWB and Bunker Labs) support veterans and reduce the risk of targeted violence and terrorism.

Moderator: Ellen Gustafson, Co-Founder and Co-Executive Director, We the Veterans

Raleigh Duttweiler, National Military Families Association

Jennifer Akin, Blue Star Families

Nate Graeser, Director, Veteran Initiatives, SoCal Grantmakers

Panel 1.9 Protecting Democratic Values and Building Resilience

Veterans have demonstrated their willingness to serve our democracy. Some extremists take advantage of that and position themselves as “patriots” in their propaganda. This panel will discuss how can we create pro-democratic opportunities that both support American democracy while building resistance to false patriotism and resilience through continued sense of purpose at the individual level.

Moderator: Christa Sperling, We the Veterans

Katie Reisner, Senior Counsel, States United Democracy Center

Daniel Vallone, U.S. Director, More in Common

Ingrid Sundlee, We the Veterans Vet the Vote

Zack Baddorf, Military Veterans in Journalism

Hala Furst, Associate Director for Strategic Engagement, DHS CP3 Office

Panel 1.10 Off-ramps, rehabilitation and reintegration of veterans

While there are organizations that specialize in helping individuals disengage from violent extremist networks, none of them currently focuses on individuals with military service backgrounds. Further, while VSO’s can and do help veterans address other challenges, there are no formal programs within VSOs to serve as peer mentors for individuals exiting extremism. What can we learn from organizations that focus on off-ramping, and is there an opportunity to leverage them to support veterans specifically?

Moderator: George Selim, Senior Vice President of Programs, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Speakers:

Sara Winegar Budge, Psy.D., Clinical Psychologist and Program Director, ExitUSA, Life After Hate

Emma Jouenne, Director of Programs & Research on Extremism, Parents for Peace

Joseph Chenelly, National Executive Director, American Veterans (AMVETS)

Chuck Leek, ExitUSA Peer Mentor, Life After Hate

Christopher Buckley, Activist, Veteran, Parents for Peace

Panel 1.11 Policy Measures to Empower Violence Prevention in the Military

While the veteran and military family community should take the lead to address violent extremism among veterans, there is a supporting role to play for government programs, policy and legislation. Given the implications for national security, our all-volunteer military, and our tradition of civilian control of the military, civil society and government actions must be harmonized to mitigate risk to the greatest extent.

Moderator: Ryan Greer, Chief of Staff, ADL

Bishop M. Garrison Jr., Vice President for Government Affairs and Public Policy at Paravision.AI

John Picarelli, DHS CP3 Office Director

James Shappell, Director, Dod Insider Threat Management and Analysis Center (DITMAC), Defense Counterintelligence and Security Agency (DCSA)

Tom Brzozowski, Counsel for Domestic Terrorism, Counterterrorism Section, U.S. Department of Justice

Panel 1.12 The Constitutional Sheriffs' Movement: How Extremists are Infiltrating Law Enforcement

This panel will discuss the origins of the Constitutional Sheriffs' movement, its ties to the modern militia movement, and the methods used by the movement to indoctrinate law enforcement, including through anti-government extremist propaganda and extremist trainings.

Moderator: Barbara Harding, Partner, Jones Day; Former Deputy Director, U.S. Treasury Department's White House Security Review

Speakers:

Mary McCord, Visiting Professor of Law and Executive Director of the Institute for Constitutional Advocacy and Protection (ICAP), Georgetown University Law Center

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Mark Pitcavage, Senior Research Fellow, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Emily Farris, Texas Christian University

Panel 1.13 Beyond Policies: Holistic Approaches to Preventing Extremism in Policing

Implementing policies to combat extremism in policing is a necessary first step, but policies alone do not change the culture of an organization. This panel will discuss holistic approaches to preventing and responding to extremism in policing, including innovative training programs that instill empathy in policing and resilience in the face of trauma. This panel will also discuss the unique challenges and lessons learned from implementing programs aimed at preventing extremism in the law enforcement environment

Moderator: Rachel Grinspan, Director, Law Enforcement Policy & Civil Rights, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Speakers:

Emma Jouenne, Director of Programs & Research on Extremism, Parents for Peace

Christopher Buckley, Veteran, Activist

Ryan Roemer, National Center for Civil and Human Rights

Jenna Fagan, Program Officer, REPAIR Program, Auschwitz Institute

Kim Shayo Buchanan, Senior Research Scholar, Center for Policing Equity

Panel 1.14 Countering Extremism in the Ranks: A Legal Toolkit for Law Enforcement Agencies

As law enforcement leaders seek to eliminate extremism within their ranks, thorny legal and constitutional questions can arise. Are extremist views protected by the First Amendment? Is a police department permitted to reprimand, discipline, or fire officers based on their bigoted or extremist speech or associations? Can a police department refuse to hire an individual on these grounds? This panel will present a toolkit developed to provide compliant policies and practices for Law Enforcement Agencies to properly address these issues.

Moderator: Mary McCord, Visiting Professor of Law and Executive Director of the Institute for Constitutional Advocacy and Protection (ICAP), Georgetown University Law Center

Speakers:

Rachel Grinspan, Director, Law Enforcement Policy & Civil Rights, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Heidi Beirich, Co-founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Katie Reisner, Senior Counsel, States United Democracy Center

David Harris, University of Pittsburgh School of Law

TRACK 2: PREVENTION IN PRACTICE

Panel 2.1 Addressing Barriers to Entry for Clinical Professionals

This panel will identify key barriers impeding clinical professionals from entering the field of targeted violence and terrorism (TVT) including fear, lack of specialized training, and stigmatization. Speakers will debunk common myths and misperceptions around working with individuals at risk of TVT. In addition, micro- and macro-level strategies for addressing barriers to entry will be explored.

Moderator: Emma Cardeli, Ph.D, Attending Psychologist & Research Associate, Trauma & Community Resilience Center, Boston Children's Hospital, Instructor of Psychology, Harvard Medical School

Speakers:

Myrieme Churchill Executive Director, Parents for Peace

Ghayda Hassan, Clinical Psychologist and Professor of Psychology, University of Quebec, Montreal

Pardeep Kaleka, Parents For Peace, Co-Director/Trainer, Not In Our Town

Panel 2.2 Behavioral & Sociological Factors Associated with Susceptibility to Violent Extremism

What are the behavioral and sociological factors associated with susceptibility to violent extremism messaging? What are the pathways by which extremist recruiters exploit those factors? Understanding the human factors that may make it more likely for a person to be predisposed to extremist techniques is critical to determining effective pathways to prevention.

Moderator: Arie Perlinger, Professor and Director of Security Studies, School of Criminology and Justice Studies, University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Speakers:

Michael King, Director of Research, Organization for the Prevention of Violence

Kurt Braddock, Assistant Professor, American University

Panel 2.3 What Does Prevention Look Like? The Role & Importance of Multidisciplinary Teams

Psychologists, social workers, peer mentors, educators, law enforcement and many other professionals can play important roles in primary, secondary, and tertiary prevention. Each discipline brings a unique set of skills and professional standards that can contribute to efforts to prevent or intervene in violent extremism. This panel will explore the roles of professionals working in tertiary intervention to help people disengage, deradicalize, and reintegrate into society after involvement in violent extremism.

Moderator: Sara Winegar Budge, Psy.D., Clinical Psychologist and Program Director, ExitUSA, Life After Hate

Speakers:

Robert Mundy, Social Worker

David O'Brien, Director of Infant, Child, and Youth Mental Health, Yorktown Family Services

Chuck Leek, ExitUSA Peer Mentor, Life After Hate

Matt Talbot, Founder, Triple Threat Assessment and Prevention Consulting

Panel 2.4 Building Professional Standards for the Relevant Professions: Lessons Learned from Global Examples

This panel will highlight lessons learned from global examples in development of a P/CVE workforce. Implications for professional standards will be discussed in addition to an exploration of how these lessons learned might be applied to multidisciplinary violence prevention efforts in the U.S.

Moderator:

Speakers:

Sarah Marsden, Senior Lecturer, Centre for Research and Evidence on Security Threats (CSTPV)

Ghayda Hassan, Director, Canadian Practitioner Network for the Prevention of Radicalization and Extremist Violence

Panel 2.5 How Can Parallel Fields Inform Clinical Practice?

This panel will explore the ways in which parallel fields (e.g., suicide, gang violence, domestic violence, addictions, human trafficking, and trauma-informed care) might inform clinical practice in the P/CVE space. Areas of convergence and divergence across each field will be discussed.

Moderator: Emma Cardeli, Ph.D., Attending Psychologist & Research Associate, Trauma & Community Resilience Center, Boston Children's Hospital, Instructor of Psychology, Harvard Medical School

Speakers:

Rajeev Ramchand, Senior Behavioral Scientist, RAND Corporation

Sarah Marsden, Senior Lecturer, Centre for Research and Evidence on Security Threats (CSTPV)

James Marley, Ph.D., Interim Dean & Associate Professor, Loyola University of Chicago School of Social Work

Panel 2.6 The Role of Formers in a Public Health Protocol

The power of peer-counseling is well-established as an effective tool in driving behavioral change. An active global community of former extremists counsel individuals who are at risk of crossing into violence or are seeking help to get out. However, no standards apply to how these “formers” provide that counseling, nor how to differentiate between counseling activity that is helpful vs. harmful, nor to measure which approaches are the most effective. This panel, which includes both formers and those who have studied the efficacy of peer-counseling, will offer standards that could improve the effectiveness of peer-counseling in the anti-hate field.

Moderator: Gordon Clubb, Lecturer in International Security, University of Leeds

Speakers:

Sara Winegar Budge, Psy.D., Clinical Psychologist and Program Director, ExitUSA, Life After Hate

Mubin Shaikh, Activist, Consultant

Brad Galloway, Coordinator, Centre on Hate, Bias & Extremism

Panel 2.7 What can Prison Programs Teach Us About Promising Techniques to Combat Violent Extremism?

Programs within prisons provide evidence-based successes in altering and preventing hate-motivated violent behaviors, including conduct by organized groups operating within prisons. One of these, Guiding Rage Into Power (GRIP) has worked with violent offenders in California prisons for more than 20 years. This panel, which includes individuals who themselves have committed acts of violence, will explore how to adapt and apply proven prison-based approaches to hate-based violence. Simultaneously, this panel will provide powerful models to be employed more broadly in prisons, which are active locations for recruitment into violent groups.

Moderator: Robert Rosenthal, Board Member and Executive Producer, The Center for Investigative Reporting (CIR)

Fateen Jackson, Activist, Guiding Rage Into Power (GRIP)

Kim Grose Moore, Executive Director, Guiding Rage Into Power (GRIP)

Tommy Winfrey, GRIP Participant

Trino Jimenez, GRIP Participant

Norman Conti, Ph.D., Professor of Sociology, McAnulty College and Graduate School of Liberal Arts

Judy Korn, Violence Protection Network

Panel 2.8 Intimate Bystanders: How to Unlock the Power of Personal Relationships

Research tells us that “intimate bystanders” – typically family members or close friends – are the first to see concerning behaviors that may be associated with hate-fueled violence. What do we know about how intimate bystanders act on that knowledge? How can we devise systems that ensure that intimate bystanders can find someone on the other end of the phone who can actually help them and their loved ones.

Moderator: Ronald Schouten, Director of the Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship, St. Elizabeths Hospital (Washington, DC)

Speakers:

Michele Grossman, Research Chair in Diversity and Resilience, Alfred Deakin Institute, Deakin University

Stevan Weine, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Illinois at Chicago, M.D.

David Eisenman, Professor-in-Residence, Department of Community Health Sciences, Fielding School of Public Health, University of California, Los Angeles

Paul Thomas, Professor of Youth and Policy, Associate Dean, University of Huddersfield

Panel 2.9 Practical Tools to Pilot in the Prevention Space

There is no current treatment protocol for individuals who are trending toward violent extremism. The body of practitioners currently in place to address the problem – including psychologists, psychiatrists, counselors, social workers, probation workers, and school counselors – lack evidence-based methodologies to work with individuals at risk of violent extremist recruitment or ideology. In this panel, practitioners will present the tools they are using to assess and manage risk for TVT. Strengths and weaknesses of each tool will be discussed and processes for piloting these tools in a TVT program will be outlined.

Moderator:

Speakers:

Matt Talbot, Founder, Triple Threat Assessment and Prevention Consulting

John McCoy, Ph.D., Founder and Executive Director, Organization for the Prevention of Violence (OPV)

Dr. Rachel Nielsen, Nicoletti-Flater Associates

Richard Aborn, President, Citizens Crime Commission of New York City

David O'Brien, Director of Infant, Child, and Youth Mental Health, Yorktown Family Services

Emma Cardeli, Ph.D, Attending Psychologist & Research Associate, Trauma & Community Resilience Center, Boston Children's Hospital, Instructor of Psychology, Harvard Medical School

Panel 2.10 Law Enforcement & Mental Health: Strategies for Effective Partnerships

This panel will introduce the modern challenges of integrating law enforcement and mental health services with violence prevention initiatives. Panelists will discuss the need for a multidisciplinary, cross-sector, and systems integration approach for practitioners. Panelists will also present practical strategies for transitioning from concurrent programming to collaborative partnerships.

Moderator: TBA

Speakers:

Braden Schrag, Founder – Polymath Solutions

Lieutenant Steven Thomas, CIT Team, Anne Arundel County Police

James Barrett, Director, Clinical Support Unit at Cambridge Police Department

Sammie Wicks, Center for Targeted Violence Prevention and National Policing Institute

Madison Reid, Director of Collaborative Public Safety Programs, Government of British Columbia

Panel 2.11 A Funder Manual for the Prevention Space

Philanthropic as well as government funding will be necessary to build the global system necessary to effectively address the issue of violent extremism. This panel will present a framework by which philanthropists and governments can assess programs operating in this space.

Moderator: Josh Donner, Eradicate Hate Global Summit

Speakers:

Hayne Yoon, Senior Policy Advisor, Office of Justice Programs, United States Department of Justice

Brette Steele, Director of Prevention and National Security, McCain Institute

Rachel Brown, Executive Director, Project Zero

Panel 2.12 Legal Protection for Practitioners

Many health care practitioners routinely work with patients who are at risk of harming themselves and others, but the prospect of working with violent extremists arguably increases those risks. This panel will discuss the current legal frameworks that provide protection for therapists working in the field and examine if changes to those rules are appropriate and necessary to develop a specialty of working with violent extremists.

Moderator: Matt Divelbiss, Partner, Jones Day

Speakers:

Richard Aborn, President, Citizens Crime Commission of New York City

TRACK 3: LEGAL STRATEGIES

Panel 3.1 Sines v. Kessler: The Historic Charlottesville Verdict

In 2017, neo-Nazis and white supremacists meticulously planned and carried out a violent, racist, and antisemitic attack on Charlottesville. Integrity First for America (IFA), along with a world-class legal team, took the organizers of the attack to court and won – securing multi-million dollar judgments and holding these defendants accountable. The month-long trial last fall helped pull back the curtain on how white supremacists operate, and the case has now emerged as a model for accountability. The lawyers who tried the case will discuss this landmark lawsuit.

Moderator: Amy Spitalnick, Executive Director, Integrity First for America

Panelists: TBA

Panel 3.2 Judicial Management in the Wake of Charlottesville

One notable feature of the Charlottesville trial was the defendants' use of the mechanics of the judicial process to spread their virulent messages and persecute witnesses. This Working Group has created a toolkit of recognized judicial management tools that can be deployed to prevent some of the more egregious abuses of the judicial system.

Moderator:

Speakers:

Timothy Lewis, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee; Counsel, Schnader Harrison; former Judge on the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania and The United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit
Ann Claire Williams, Partner, Jones Day, former Judge on the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois and the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit

Panel 3.3 The Next Chapter for Oath Keepers and Proud Boys

In December 2021, the DC Attorney General sued the Proud Boys, Oath Keepers and others over the January 6 attack on Congress. The US Justice Department subsequently brought criminal charges. This panel will outline the legal theories and the status of the various legal proceedings.

Moderator: Seamus Hughes, Deputy Director of the Program on Extremism, George Washington University

Speakers:

Michael Jensen, Senior Researcher, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START)

William H. Lamar, IV, Pastor, Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church

Vikram Swarup, Chief Deputy Attorney General, Office of the Attorney General for the District of Columbia

Colin McDonell, Counsel, States United Democracy Center

Panel 3.4 Collection of Judgments

Civil litigation provides a powerful tool against violent hate by, among other things, providing monetary verdicts that can seriously impair or even bankrupt the defendants. However, it is often necessary to pursue a separate judicial process in order to actually collect the money awarded by a verdict. If judgments cannot be collected, they cannot either compensate victims or exercise negative financial impact on defendants. This panel, composed of plaintiffs, their lawyers, and cryptocurrency experts, has focused on the largest US judgments achieved to date and will discuss the steps necessary to effectively collect the judgments awarded.

Moderator: Jason Blazakis, Center on Terrorism, Extremism and Counterterrorism, Middlebury Institute of International Studies

Speakers:

Daniel Kramer, Paul, Weiss

Megan Squire, Deputy Director for Data Analytics and OSINT, Southern Poverty Law Center

Tanya Gersh, Advocate against Anti-Semitism

Beth Littrell, Southern Poverty Law Center

Panel 3.5 Map The Money

Money flows can reveal a great deal about extremist organizations. These experts, who have tracked financial flows, will discuss how this information can be used to prevent extremist violence.

Moderator: Robert Bone, Chainalysis

Speakers:

Megan Squire, Deputy Director for Data Analytics and OSINT, Southern Poverty Law Center

Michael Edison Hayden, Sr. Investigative Reporter, Southern Poverty Law Center

Heather Williams, Acting Associate Director, International Security and Defense Police Center, Senior Policy Researcher, Professor, Pardee RAND Graduate School

Panel 3.6 Creation of a Global Evidence Locker

Throughout the world, various groups are using Public Source Information, primarily online, to find evidence relevant to the perpetration of hate crimes and other violations of human rights. This panel will address repositories that can house the collective work product of the disparate groups that currently are working to develop evidence of hate crimes and genocide.

Moderator:

Speakers:

Louisa Klingvall, Team Leader, Directorate-General for Justice and Consumers Unit C.2 Fundamental Rights Policy
Charles Kotuby, FCI Arb, Professor of Practice, University of Pittsburgh School of Law, Executive Director, Center for International Legal Education, Affiliate Professor, University of Pittsburgh Institute of Cyber Law, Policy and Security
Dia Kayyali, Associate Director for Advocacy, Mnemonic, Co-Chair, Advisory Network, Christchurch Call

Panel 3.7 Creative Strategies for Criminal and Civil Cases

Hate crime statutes are only one tool in the arsenal of litigants. Former prosecutors and civil lawyers will discuss novel criminal and civil theories of recovery.

Moderator: Justin Herdman, Partner, Jones Day; Former United States Attorney

Speakers:

Aloke Chakravarty, Partner, Snell & Wilmer, Former Federal Prosecutor

Licha Nyiendo, Chief Legal Officer, Human Rights First

Arusha Gordon, Associate Director, James Byrd Jr. Center To Stop Hate, Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law

Beth Littrell, Southern Poverty Law Center

Panel 3.8 Atomwaffen and Attacks on The Press

In January 2022, a leader of the “Atomwaffen” neo-Nazi hate group was sentenced after being convicted of five federal felonies for conspiracy to threaten journalists and ADL employees. Those involved in the case will tell the story and the lessons to be learned by communities and by the legal system.

Moderator: Tom Corbett, former Governor of Pennsylvania, Attorney General of Pennsylvania, and US Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania; Steering Committee Eradicate Hate Global Summit

Speakers:

Thomas Woods – Assistant United States Attorney, U.S. Attorney's Office, Western District of Washington

Panel 3.9 Investigation vs. Entrapment: Undercover Operations in Extremist Organizations

Undercover operations are a standard tool of law enforcement, but are there special considerations when operating in the world of incitement to violent extremism? This panel will explore recent cases in which entrapment defenses have resulted in acquittals in high-profile criminal cases, and will discuss the parameters of investigative techniques in this setting.

Moderator: Ann Claire Williams, Partner, Jones Day, former Judge on the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois and the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit

Speakers:

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Mubin Shaikh, Activist, Consultant

Panel 3.10 When Litigation Limits Tech

Through a series of cases, parties have blocked the efforts of platform companies to remove particular content. This panel will explore the rulings in these cases and the ways in which both law and tech can respond.

Moderator: Mark Nordenberg, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Chancellor Emeritus and Chair of the Institute of Politics, University of Pittsburgh

Speakers:

David Tessler, Public Policy Manager, Meta

Daveed Gartenstein-Ross, Founder & CEO, Valens Global

Panel 3.11 Beyond the Limits of Free Speech: Incitement to Violence

For decades, First Amendment jurisprudence has made clear that the Free Speech Clause of the U.S. Constitution does not protect “fighting words” or incitement to violence. Similarly, many platforms have terms and conditions that bar this type of speech on private platforms. This panel will explore the non-protected speech that exists in violation of the site terms of use, and the steps that can be taken, consistent with the First Amendment, to prevent such dangerous and unprotected speech.

Moderator: Laura Ellsworth, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit; Partner-In-Charge Global Community Service Initiatives, Jones Day

Speakers:

Rita Katz, Executive Director and Founder, SITE Intelligence Group

Wendy Via, CEO, President, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

TRACK 4: EDUCATION AND PUBLIC AWARENESS

Panel 4.1 Taxonomy

One critical impediment in the anti-hate field is that there is no consensus on the meaning of the fundamental terminology. This panel will review the competing definitions and develop a working group to adopt the terminology that the Summit will use going forward.

Moderator: Colin Clarke, Director of Research, The Soufan Group

Speakers:

Brette Steele, Director of Prevention and National Security, McCain Institute

James Marley, Ph.D., Interim Dean & Associate Professor, Loyola University of Chicago School of Social Work

Richard Aborn, President, Citizens Crime Commission of New York City

Daveed Gartenstein-Ross, Founder & CEO, Valens Global

Bjorn Ihler, Co-founder and Director, Khalifa Ihler Institute; Co-founder and Co-CEO Glitterpill LLC

Panel 4.2 Telling the Real-life Stories of Modern Day Hate

Throughout the world a network of organizations tell the story of Holocaust survivors in a powerful and compelling way. This panel, which includes many of those leading organizations, is exploring how the expertise developed within that network can be deployed to tell the story of victims of modern day hate.

Moderator: Jennifer Ciardelli, Director of the Initiative on the Holocaust and Professional Leadership, United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

Speakers:

Lauren Bairnsfather, Pittsburgh Holocaust Museum

Michael Bernstein, Tree of Life Inc.

Patrice O'Neill, Executive Producer, Not In Our Town

TBA, Meta

Panel 4.3 Toward Dynamic Safeguarding: The Future of Tech Platform Safety

Social media platforms have made great strides in developing trust & safety teams, new policies, and AI-powered moderation capabilities. But what's next? The challenge of safeguarding a variety of at-risk audiences is monumental and constantly shifting. How are tech companies and other organizations building new approaches to safeguarding online spaces and protecting individual users from harm? What are the challenges in designing effective approaches to improve safety across different platforms? How can tech companies and organizations collaborate with prevention practitioners to improve their efforts? This panel will look at existing efforts to counter violent extremism, reduce self-harm, and protect users from digital hate, and then discuss the future of platform safety.

Moderator: Ross Frenett, Founder and CEO, Moonshot

Speakers:

Adam Hadley, Executive Director, Tech Against Terrorism

Brian Fishman, Co-founder, Cinder

Dina Hussein, Counterterrorism & Dangerous Organizations Policy for Europe, Middle East and Asia, Meta

Jared Holt, Senior Research Manager, Hate & Extremism, Institute for Strategic Dialogue (ISD)

Panel 4.4 The Power of Art

Art is a powerful communicator. This panel will examine how various forms of art can reach populations at most risk of violent extremism and also motivate community actions.

Moderator: Susan Corbett, former First Lady of Pennsylvania

Speakers:

Timothy Hinds, Trailblaze Creative

Craig Dershowitz, Chief Executive Officer, Artists 4 Israel

Kathryn Spitz Cohan, Executive Director, Film Pittsburgh

Daveed Gartenstein-Ross, Founder & CEO, Valens Global

Panel 4.5 Amplification vs Suppression: How Do We Chart The Most Effective Path for the Traditional Press and Social Media

In 1963, The New York Times prominently published Bill Hudson's now-iconic photograph of a police dog, with teeth bared, attacking a black man during a civil rights protest. In her Pulitzer Prize-winning 2001 book Carry Me Home: Birmingham, Alabama, the Climactic Battle of the Civil Rights Revolution, author Diane McWhorter wrote that this photo and its stark and shocking revelation of the violence underway helped drive "international opinion to the side of the civil rights revolution." In the current world of extremist hate, one school of thought holds that detailed reporting of violent extremist activity "amplifies" extremist messaging and, therefore, reporting should be suppressed in various ways. Another school of thought holds that suppression of the extent and virulence of extremist activity misses an opportunity to galvanize broad public support for necessary societal countermeasures. In both schools of thought, there is frank recognition that the increasing use of social media plays a critical role in the calculus. This Working Group, composed of prominent members of the international press, social media companies, researchers measuring the impact of messaging on the incidence of violent extremism, and experts in communication methods of extremist groups, will present a framework to navigate the "amplification vs suppression" debate and guide reporting in an evidence-based manner.

Moderator: Laura Ellsworth, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Partner-in-Charge of Global Community Service Initiatives, Jones Day

Speakers:

Raney Aronson-Rath, FRONTLINE

Allison Campbell, Senior Technical Advisor, Internews

Kenneth S. Stern, Director, Bard Center for the Study of Hate

Michelle Shephard, Journalist

Panel 4.6 Journalists as Targets and as Vectors for Change

Journalists who report on hate crimes can, themselves, be victims of hate crimes. Yet their ability to provide exposure to these issues through storytelling is an important tool to both prevent and interdict violent extremism, and it is critical to preserve their ability to fulfill that function safely. This panel will explore how community efforts can better engage the unique expertise, knowledge and skills of journalists, and how journalists can better collaborate with other disciplines to achieve more effective outcomes for both the subjects of their journalism and for their own protection.

Moderator: Robert Rosenthal, Board Member and Executive Producer, The Center for Investigative Reporting (CIR)

Speakers:

AC Thompson, Staff Reporter, ProPublica, Correspondent, Frontline

Seamus Hughes, Deputy Director of the Program on Extremism, George Washington University

Courtney Radsch, Senior U.S. Technology Advisor, ARTICLE 19, Visiting Scholar, Annenberg Center for Media at Risk

Odette Yousef, National Security Correspondent on Extremism, NPR

4.7 Improving Communication Through Storytelling

Personal stories are powerful ways to deliver memorable messages, yet too often the press forgets to tell the stories of how individual people are impacted by hate and violence. This panel of filmmakers and story-tellers will share tips for how to bring these difficult stories to life in a way that drives change.

Moderator: Kenneth Gormley, President and Professor of Law, Duquesne University

Speakers:

Patrice O'Neill, Executive Producer, Not In Our Town

Pardeep Kaleka, Parents For Peace, Co-Director/Trainer, Not In Our Town

Paul Solotaroff, Senior Writer, Rolling Stone Magazine

George Weiss, Founder & CEO of Radio La Benevolencija Humanitarian Tools Foundation

Panel 4.8 Effective Communication With Perpetrators of Violence

The most effective communication is designed with the specific listener in mind. This panel of individuals who spent time working with members of violent hate-based movements will discuss, from an insider's perspective, what messaging works and what messaging doesn't work to prevent recruitment into violent organizations and to disengage participants from those movements.

Moderator: Laura Ellsworth, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit; Partner in Charge of Global Community Service Initiatives, Jones Day

Speakers:

Brad Galloway, Exit Specialist, Life After Hate

Lauren Manning, Author and Advocate

Judy Korn, Violence Protection Network

Tony McAleer, Safe Communities Institute

Gordon Clubb, Lecturer in International Security, University of Leeds

Mubin Shaikh, Activist, Consultant

Panel 4.9 The Role of Faith

Faith plays a critical role in the fight against hate-based violence. These speakers will address faith-based community, global and doctrinal approaches.

Moderator: Ron Symons, Sr. Director of Jewish Life, Jewish Community Center of Greater Pittsburgh

Speakers:

TBA, United Nations Action Plan Against Hate

William H. Lamar, IV, Pastor, Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church

Abdullah Atepli, Duke Divinity School

Joshua Mayfield, Administrator of Chaplaincy Services, Arkansas Department of Corrections

Panel 4.10 Education Through Entertainment

Delivering messages to those most at risk of participating in violent extremism is a specialized task and this panel will explore whether "entertainment education" – including video games, TV, sport, and other media – can be effective avenues for message delivery.

Moderator: Ross Frenett, Founder & CEO, Moonshot

Speakers:

George Weiss, Founder & CEO of Radio La Benevolencija Humanitarian Tools Foundation

Derek Silva, Associate Professor, King's College, London

Arvind Singhal, Ph.D., Samuel Shirley & Edna Holt Marston Professor, Director, Social Justice Initiative, Department of Communication, The University of Texas at El Paso

Hana Hadzifezovic, John Howard Society Ottawa

Panel 4.11 Invent to Prevent

Cutting edge technology coming out of the newest members of the anti-extremism profession are making a difference across the sector. This panel of Invent to Prevent participants will describe their work and how it can change the world.

Moderator: Jason Blazakis, Center on Terrorism, Extremism and Counterterrorism, Middlebury Institute of International Studies

Speakers:

Kaitlyn Tierney, Middlebury Institute

Jordan Galkowski, Missouri State

Emily Stingle, American University

Panel 4.12 Advertising: An Opportunity to Align Incentives in an Online Environment?

Companies advertising online and facilitating ad placement all have a business interest in avoiding the display of their ads alongside undesirable content. The tech sector has a business interest in developing systems to accommodate advertisers. In this area, the economic incentives of advertisers and the platforms are also aligned with the need to identify and prevent violent hate-based content. This panel will explore the extent to which existing systems developed for advertisers can be an important component of a global strategy to counter online hate-fueled violence.

Moderator: Courtney Radsch, Senior U.S. Technology Advisor, ARTICLE 19, Visiting Scholar, Annenberg Center for Media at Risk

Speakers:

John Montgomery, Group M Advertising

Jake Dubbins, Conscious Advertising Network

Ross Frenett, Founder and CEO, Moonshot

Christopher Kenna, Chairman & Founder, Brand Advance Group

Panel 4.13 Developing the Curriculum for an Academic Field of Anti-Hate Studies

The multidisciplinary nature of the anti-hate field is well-recognized, but few academic programs or degrees address this professional specialty. This Working Group has devised a multi-year curriculum in Anti-Hate Studies that would help academic institutions build a global profession of experts formally trained in the multidisciplinary aspects of the field.

Moderator: Mark Nordenberg, Co-Chair, Eradicate Hate Global Summit, Chancellor Emeritus and Chair of the Institute of Politics, University of Pittsburgh

Speakers:

Kenneth S. Stern, Director, Bard Center for the Study of Hate

Barbara Perry, Professor, University of Ontario Institute of Technology; Director, Centre on Hate, Bias and Extremism
David Myers, Director, UCLA Initiative to Study Hate

Panel 4.14 A Whole of Ecosystem Approach: How Tech Platforms Identify, Address And Prevent Violent Extremist Content

A walk through of the whole of ecosystem approach taken by tech platforms in addressing the Entirety of the threat landscape of online violent extremism.

Moderator: Dina Hussein, Counterterrorism & Dangerous Organizations Policy for Europe, Middle East and Asia, Meta

Speakers:

Nick Rasmussen, Executive Director, Global Internet Forum to Counter Terrorism (GIFCT)

Vidhya Ramalingam, Founder & CEO, Moonshot

Karina Gerhardt, Consultant, Pyrra Technologies

TRACK 5: COMMUNITY PREPAREDNESS AND RESPONSE

Panel 5.1 Global Resource Mapping: Creating a Resource Directory for Crisis, for Research and for Data

Many organizations and individuals are working to combat hate-based violence. Yet the plethora of resources can, itself, be a confusing barrier to solutions for individuals and communities in need. This panel is creating centralized and accessible databases identifying (1) Resources and practitioners; (2) Data Collections; and (3) Research Needs.

Moderator:

Speakers:

Dave Fortier, President, One World Strong, Practitioner's Network

Brette Steele, Director of Prevention and National Security, McCain Institute

Michael Yoder, Ph.D., Postdoctoral Researcher, Collaboratory Against Hate and IDEaS Center, Institute for Software Research, Carnegie Mellon University

Panel 5.2 The Boston Mapping Project

In many of the most deadly mass shootings, the attackers conducted online research of potential targets. In Boston, a private group has posted a map providing detailed mapping information about the specific physical locations of those who support Jewish causes. This panel will explore the purported purpose of the Map, the potential for misuse, and the potential legal theories implicated.

Moderator: Charles Moellenberg, Eradicate Hate Global Summit; Jones Day

Speakers:

Elana Broitman, Senior Vice President for Public Affairs, The Jewish Federation of North America

Jeremy Burton, Chief Executive Officer, Jewish Community Relations Council of Greater Boston (JCRC)

Peggy Shukur, New England Regional Deputy Director, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Panel 5.3 Common Tips for Common People

Often members of the public – whether in the virtual world or the real world – are witnesses to acts of incipient violence. This panel will address the most effective way to communicate information in crisis via social media.

Moderator: Wasi Mohammed, Eradicate Hate Global Summit

Speakers:

Richard (Dic) Donohue, Jr, Policy Researcher, Director of the RAND Center for Quality Policing

Gordon Clubb, Lecturer in International Security, University of Leeds

TBA Tech Company

Panel 5.4 A Community Responds: Not In Our Town

How can a community use a public health approach to respond to and prevent hate crimes? In this session, Not In Our Town presents successful approaches gleaned from two decades of documenting anti-hate action in cities across the country. Pittsburgh leaders and Repairing the World Director and Not In Our Town producers discuss how to use film and civic engagement to improve hate reporting and response across diverse neighborhoods and communities.

Moderator: Debra Caplan, Executive-in-Residence, The Forbes Funds

Speakers:

Patrice O'Neil, Executive Producer, Not In Our Town

Wasi Mohammed, Senior Policy Officer, The Pittsburgh Foundation; Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee

Ron Symons, Sr. Director of Jewish Life, Jewish Community Center of Greater Pittsburgh

Panel 5.5 Misinformation: Is It Driving Violent Extremism in the US and How Can It Be Countered

This panel will explore the extent to which Russian misinformation is present within the communications of violent extremist groups, the vulnerabilities of audiences to such messaging, and, if so, the most promising and effective ways to prevent and counter the harmful impacts, such as communicating its actual sources to those relying upon it, as well as building up skills to critically assess content.

Moderator: Justin Herdman, Partner, Jones Day

Speakers:

Todd Helums, RAND

Olga Beloglova, Meta

David Frey, Ph.D., Center for Holocaust and Genocide Studies, United States Military Academy at West Point

Melanie Smith, Head of Digital Analysis Unit, Institute for Strategic Dialogue (ISD)

Dimitrios Pavlounis, Research Director, CIVIX

Panel 5.6 Supporting Women and Children Returning from Violent Extremist Conflicts

One legacy of the Islamic State (IS) and its failed state-building efforts is the thousands of imprisoned women and children who remain in detention camps in Syria and other places around the world. As many as 27,000 children are in those camps, of whom 7,000 are foreign nationals and 1,300 are from European countries. Most nations, with a few noteworthy exceptions, have so far avoided taking concrete steps to facilitate the return of children and women from Syria. Kazakhstan repatriated 654 citizens from 2019-2021 as part of the Zhusan operation, and Uzbekistan repatriated 512 by May 2021 as part of the Mehr repatriations. One barrier to repatriation and subsequent rehabilitation and reintegration of returning women and children has been outstanding questions of how to effectively rehabilitate and reintegrate these women and children in a manner that responds to their complex and nuanced needs and while protecting the safety and security of citizens at home. The application of trauma-informed care models for returning children and spouses of foreign fighters is still in its infancy and reflects critical gaps in understanding. This panel of experts will discuss their work with returnees and practitioners in several countries.

Moderator: Mary Bunn, PhD, LCSW, Research Scientist, Department of Psychiatry, University of Illinois at Chicago

Speakers:

Stevan Weine, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Illinois at Chicago, M.D.

Heidi Ellis, Ph.D, Director, Boston Children's Hospital Trauma and Community Resilience Center (TCRC), Associate Professor of Psychology, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Harvard Medical School

John McCoy, Ph.D., Founder and Executive Director, Organization for the Prevention of Violence (OPV)

Panel 5.7 Tech in Support of Public Health

Technology solutions can be a tool to redirect those susceptible to violence into healthier and more supportive directions. This panel of tech experts will talk about the tools that are available today and those that are on the horizon.

Moderator: Nick Rasmussen, Executive Director, Global Internet Forum to Counter Terrorism (GIFCT)

Speakers:

Celia Davies, Director of International Programmes, Director of Ethics, Moonshot

Dina Hussein, Counterterrorism & Dangerous Organizations Policy for Europe, Middle East and Asia, Meta

Panel 5.8 Designing Ethical Prevention: Improving Practitioner Awareness

The history of the prevention field is marred with racism and bias, and riddled with examples of the abuse of civil liberties. Despite effective, evidence-based work, new prevention programming is often greeted with great skepticism by not only the public and press, but the audiences that prevention work seeks to reach. How can practitioners design and communicate effective programming that protects civil liberties and data privacy? This panel will go into detail with some of the most pressing issues facing ethical prevention work globally and across sectors, ultimately questioning how practitioners can work to end online harms without the risk of creating harm ourselves? The discussion will also include issues surrounding partnerships and collaboration with clients and investors, and how to build effective ethical checks and balances in monitoring and evaluating prevention work.

Moderator: Celia Davies, Director of Ethics, Moonshot

Speakers:

Brette Steele, Director of Prevention and National Security, McCain Institute

Brett Kubicek, PhD, Manager of Research, Canada Centre for Community Engagement and Prevention of Violence, Public Safety Canada

Heidi Ellis, Ph.D, Director, Boston Children's Hospital Trauma and Community Resilience Center (TCRC), Associate Professor of Psychology, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, Harvard Medical School

Panel 5.9 Democracy as a Target of Hate – The Role of Organized Hate Groups in the Events of January 6

The criminal prosecutions arising from the events of January 6 present a window through which to view the individuals who resorted to violence on January 6.

Moderator: Seamus Hughes, Deputy Director of the Program on Extremism, George Washington University

Speakers:

Michael Jensen, Senior Researcher, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START)

Oren Segal, Vice President, Center on Extremism, Anti-Defamation League (ADL)

Sam Jackson, Assistant Professor, College of Emergency Preparedness, Homeland Security and Cybersecurity, University of Albany

Erin E. Wilson, Senior Director, Extremism and Human Rights, Human Rights First

Panel 5.10 Protecting Democratic Values and Building Resilience

Veterans have demonstrated their willingness to serve our democracy. Some groups espousing violence take advantage of that and position themselves as “patriots” in their propaganda. This panel will address how we can create pro-democratic opportunities that both support American democracy resilience through continued sense of purpose at the individual level while building resistance to false patriotism.

Moderator: Christa Sperling, We the Veterans

Speakers:

Katie Reisner, Senior Counsel, States United Democracy Center

Daniel Vallone, U.S. Director, More in Common

Ingrid Sundlee, We the Veterans Vet the Vote

Zack Baddorf, Military Veterans in Journalism

Panel 5.11 Strategies for Protecting the Election Process

Although distinct from hate-fueled violence, violence against the democratic process is driven by many of the same forces. These speakers will discuss a variety of projects currently underway to support a peaceful election process, and the lessons that can be learned from that work to prevent violence against other targets.

Moderator: Timothy Lewis, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee; Counsel, Schnader Harrison; former Judge on the United States District Judge for the Western District of Pennsylvania and on The United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit

Speakers:

William Braniff, Director, National Consortium for the Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START), Professor of the Practice, University of Maryland

Mary McCord, Visiting Professor of Law and Executive Director of the Institute for Constitutional Advocacy and Protection (ICAP), Georgetown University Law Center

Jiore Craig, Head of Elections and Digital Integrity, Institute for Strategic Dialogue (ISD)

Panel 5.12 Left Wing Extremism

Left wing extremism presents challenges that are both similar to and distinct from the more widely studied right wing extremism. This panel will discuss several examples of left wing extremism and the steps that can be taken to address it.

Moderator: Catherine Augustine, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Executive Committee; Director, RAND Pittsburgh Office

Myrieme Churchill, Executive Director, Parents for Peace

Catarina Doxsee, Associate Director and Associate Fellow, Transnational Threats Project, Center for Strategic & International Studies (CSIS)

Oren Segal, Vice President, Center for Extremism, ADL

Panel 5.13 Protecting Those Who Protect

Those working on the prevention of violent extremism face a daily toll, both psychological and physical. Spending hours on end immersed in the poisonous vitriol of hate takes a psychological and emotional toll. And physical attacks can come in the form of doxing or more direct physical threats. This panel will examine what practical steps can be taken to protect those who devote their lives to countering violent extremism.

Moderator: Marc-André Argentino, Research Fellow, International Centre for the Study of Radicalisation (ICSR), PhD Candidate, Concordia University

Speakers:

Thomas Thorley, GIFCT

TRACK 6: THE RISE OF HATE AMONG YOUNG ADULTS

Panel 6.1 The Adolescent Brain

Neurobiology studies the developing brain and reveals surprising facts about males in the 18-24 age group. This panel will address how cutting-edge brain science could inform and transform prevention strategies, and how youth themselves can be an important part of prevention.

Speakers:

Arjun Rath, Student and Activist

Ronald Schouten, Director of the Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship, St. Elizabeths Hospital (Washington, DC)

Panel 6.2 Setting the Scene: The Incel Movement and Hate-Fueled Violence Against Women

A father who lost his daughter to hate-fueled violence has now devoted himself to finding solutions to the kind of hate that took his child's life. This discussion of his experience and his resolve to effect meaningful change provides both insight and inspiration to all those who seek to drive actual solutions.

Moderator: Maggie Feinstein, Eradicate Hate Global Summit Steering Committee; 10/27 Healing Partnership

Speakers:

Jeffrey S. Binkley, Maura's Voice

Panel 6.3 The Incel Movement: What Is It?

The incel movement has risen to prominence over the past several years as a leading extremist threat, inspiring violence from California to Florida. This introductory panel will discuss the ideology's core tenets, outline where and how it mobilizes, and provide an update on the movement's recent violence.

Moderator: Colin Clarke, Director of Research, The Soufan Group

Patrick James, Meta

Panel 6.4 Mental Health as a Vulnerability? Debating the Role of Bullying, Loneliness, and Mental Health in Male Supremacist Radicalization and Counter-Radicalization

Mental health and its role in violent extremism has long been debated in terrorism and counterterrorism circles, and incels are no different. In surveys taken on sites where they congregate, incels frequently self-report high levels of mental health issues, including autism and depression. Others cite a history of bullying and loneliness as significant factors in their radicalization and anger. The panelists will discuss whether these factors should be taken into consideration as part of our efforts to combat the movement's violence.

Moderator: Jacob Ware, Research Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations

Speakers:

Ronald Schouten, Director of the Forensic Psychiatry Fellowship, St. Elizabeths Hospital (Washington, DC)

Jillian Hunchak, Public Safety Canada

David O'Brien, Director of Infant, Child, and Youth Mental Health, Yorktown Family Services

Pardeep Kaleka, Parents For Peace, Co-Director/Trainer, Not In Our Town

Panel 6.5 Beyond Incels: The Terrorist Threat from the Broader Manosphere

Despite the attention paid to the movement and the violence it has inspired, the incel movement forms just one subsection of the so-called online "manosphere." This broader (mostly digital) male supremacist network poses a considerable extremist threat to both men and women, and is often overlooked or dismissed as a "gateway" to other, more recognized forms of violence, such as white supremacist and other racially and ethnically-motivated violence. The panelists will discuss why this movement requires its own attention and countermeasures.

Moderator: Jessica Reaves, Editorial Director, ADL Center on Extremism

Speakers:

Ye Bin Won, Business Development Analyst, Moonshot

Josh Roose, Institute for Citizenship and Globalisation, Deakin University

Panel 6.6 Towards a Framework for Countering Incel and Other Forms of Hate Motivated Radicalization to Violence Online

A number of cross-disciplinary efforts are underway to counter violent extremist forms of incel, and other hate-motivated forms of radicalization to violence, ranging from civil society organizations seeking to counter the allure of the extremist narrative, to reaching vulnerable/at-risk audiences with services and support, to data-based approaches to halt developing violent extremist/terrorist plots. This panel will discuss these efforts and outline specific deliverables that can advance the effort.

Panel 6.7 RESERVED

TRACK 7: GLOBAL GOVERNMENT RESPONSE

Panel 7.1 Reserved

Panel 7.2 Comparative Approaches for Prevention: The Five Country Ministerial Approach

The Five Country Ministerial is an ongoing effort to coordinate home affairs, public safety, homeland security and related agencies from five countries: Australia, Canada, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States. In this panel, the leaders of these five related efforts to address the prevention of targeted violence and terrorism will share lessons learned and how international cooperation can advance local efforts. Moderator: John Picarelli, Center for Prevention Programs and Partnerships, US

Panel 7.3 Strong Cities Network: A Model for Change

The Strong Cities Network works to prevent the challenges of hate, polarization and extremism by identifying and addressing the local drivers behind these global threats. Whether through intensive capacity-building projects or standalone research and analysis, SCN works on a diverse set of members' needs to build evidence-based policy and globally informed local practice. This panel addresses the work of SCN and how it can be expanded in the United States and around the world

Moderator: Eric Rosand, Executive Director, Strong Cities Network

Speakers:

Andy Berke, Special Representative, Broadband

Allison Silberberg, Government Relations Consultant/Former Mayor of Alexandria, Virginia

Panel 7.4 State and Local Government Approaches to Hate and Extremism

The federalized nature of our democracy means that many of the democratic processes, governing bodies, and policies that impact our daily lives occur at the state and local level. This is also why many groups who espouse hate-based violence have for decades emphasized state and local influence and infiltration as key tactics. As a result, addressing hate at the state and local level is a critical component in countering hate-fueled violent extremism and this panel will address some initiatives designed to address that critical need.

Moderator: Erin E. Wilson, Senior Director, Extremism and Human Rights, Human Rights First

Speakers:

Derek Okubo, Executive Director, Agency for Human Rights & Community Partnerships, City and County of Denver

Fay Stetz-Waters, Director of Civil Rights and Social Justice, Office of the Attorney General, Oregon Department of Justice

Keith Hoffman, Chief, Civil & Community Rights Unit, Rhode Island Office of the Attorney General

Joumana Silyan-Saba, Director of Policy & Discrimination Enforcement, Civil, Human Rights and Equity Department, City of Los Angeles

Panel 7.5 Hate and Polarization in Central and Eastern Europe

Since the fall of communism, Central and Eastern Europe has been a destination for violent far-right groups around the world who attend neo-Nazi concerts, “whites only” mixed martial arts (MMA) tournaments, paramilitary training, and marches and rallies. The hate these groups direct towards Jews, racial and ethnic minorities, immigrants, members of the LGBTQI+ community, and other perceived enemies such as anti-fascists is part of a growing trend of hate and polarization across the region. This panel will explore how the region’s role as a source and destination of antisemitism and other forms of hate impacts communities around the world. The discussion will focus on the annual Day of Honor march in Budapest and the Independence Day march in Warsaw; the rise of antisemitism at Holocaust memorial sites; Holocaust distortion; the role hate speech played in the murder of Gdansk Mayor Pawel Adamowicz in January 2019; and the impact of foreign volunteers fighting on both sides of the conflict in Ukraine.

Moderator: Michael Duffin, Senior Advisor, Bureau of Counterterrorism, U.S. Department of State

Speakers:

Rafal Pankowski, Co-Founder and Deputy Editor “Nigdy Wiecej (Never Again)” Association, Professor at Institute of Sociology of Collegium Civitas, Warsaw

Marilyn Mayo, Senior Research Fellow at the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) Center on Extremism

Dr. Robert Williams, Deputy Director at International Affairs at United States Holocaust Memorial Museum

Panel 7.6 Towards a Comprehensive Framework for Preventing, Prosecuting, and Countering Racially and Ethnically Motivated Violent Extremism: The Global Counterterrorism Forum's Initiative

Actors inspired by racially or ethnically motivated violent extremism (REMVE) routinely carry out shocking violence in the name of defending against perceived threats to their racial or ethnic identity. REMVE operations, ideologies, and actors have become increasingly transnational, as individuals and groups connect across national boundaries, and REMVE attacks in one country can inspire new attacks thousands of miles away. This multilayered threat requires a whole-of-government and whole-of-society response. The governments of the United States and Norway led an initiative this year for the Global Counterterrorism Forum (GCTF), a multilateral counterterrorism platform, to create a Toolkit to strengthen the abilities of GCTF member states and additional stakeholders to develop and implement counter-REMVE strategies, policies, and programs. This panel will discuss the process of developing the Toolkit. It will discuss opportunities to better address the threat as well as enumerate the legal, policy, and operational challenges to countering REMVE.

Speakers:

Heidi Beirich, Co-Founder, Global Project Against Hate and Extremism

Varsha Koduvayur, Valens Global

Elizabeth Neumann, Chief Strategy Officer, Moonshot

Ian Moss, Deputy Coordinator for Counterterrorism, U.S. State Department

Panel 7.7: Tech Against Terror

Technology allows the creation of continuously evolving strategies to counter online hate. This panel will examine strategies employed by the tech companies and what can be done to expand upon and strengthen these systems.

Moderator: Nicholas Rasmussen, Executive Director, Global Internet Forum to Counter Terrorism (GIFCT)

Speakers:

Adam Hadley, Executive Director, Tech Against Terror

Courtney Radsch, Senior U.S. Technology Advisor, ARTICLE 19, Visiting Scholar, Annenberg Center for Media at Risk

Dia Kayyali, Associate Director for Advocacy, Mnemonic, Co-Chair, Advisory Network, Christchurch Call

Dina Hussein, Counterterrorism & Dangerous Organizations Policy for Europe, Middle East and Asia, Meta

Panel 7.8 The Christchurch Call

In response to the horrific killings of 51 people at a mosque in Christchurch, New Zealand, the New Zealand Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern and French President Emmanuel Macron brought together heads of state, government leaders, and the tech sector to adopt the “Christchurch Call” – a commitment by governments and the tech sector to combat terrorist and violent extremist content online, while preserving the fundamental right of freedom of expression. This panel will discuss the Call, the progress it has made in driving change, and the challenges to be tackled in the years to come.

Moderator: Paul Ash, Prime Minister’s Special Representative on Cyber and Digital, Cyber Coordinator, Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet, New Zealand

Speakers:

Courtney Radsch, Senior U.S. Technology Advisor, ARTICLE 19, Visiting Scholar, Annenberg Center for Media at Risk
